The war-clouds are beginning to fash quite vividly in Europe. The leaden and iron hail may soon be harling through the air. And the matter threatens to asme gigantic proportions. France and sia are apparently the principal parrmany and Russia and even Great itain may be drawn into it. In that ase, the tremendous grandeur of the conflict, so far as numbers go, will even transcend that of the late immortal struggle in the United States. But, even if all Europe shall become involved, we do not beeve that the strife will endnre so long or be of so terrible a character as onr own. And so this is your whole apology or ex use or pretext for your assertion, made and peated, that Mr. Stevenson, in his speech t Frankfort, charged or implied that Gen. Breckinridge was guilty of complicity in the assassination of Mr. Lincoln. The enire amount of the matter, it seems, is that

It cannot but be a matter of sincere and profound regret to the best friends of he country that all the gennine conservatives of Kentucky are not one united and Larmonious party. They ought to be one party, and we hope they will be before the August election. We wish to see them go into battle as one great army and not as two smaller ones fighting each other as well as the common foe. Nothing that the Democrats of the State an do will so greatly promote this result s the election of their Congressional candates in May by an overwhelming marity. He disseed, save the Signs of the Times, the ue principles of government as laid own by its founders, reviewed the platorms of the two prominent parties of the State, and, in passing, made a few pertiient remarks on the attempt of a few soreads in Kentucky to organize a Third party-showing up the futile effort in its e light, as a fungus of ancient opposi ion to Democracy and the fundamental principles of our Government.

Col. Jones is a very pleasant speaker avoiding misrepresentation, stating facts and advancing arguments and well-au thenticated proofs to sustain his and the position of the Democracy. He showed clearly that the issues now depending were created by the destructives in Congress, in their efforts to subvert the Govnment of our fathers, and erect in its cad the most abborrent despotism.

He appealed in eloquent strains to the emocrats of Kentucky to unite in their trength and poll their full vote on the 4th May: warning them to beware of selfonfidence; to rally to the resone of contutional liberty; to follow the example our friends in Connecticut, by elevatg men to office who cherish their liberies as a people, and who will perpetuate stitutional prindiples.

The Vice of Blood.

The trial of Lemaire, the young French father intended to marry her, is one of the most remarkable in the annals of crime. In the murder itself there were no unusuincidents. Lemaire, having decided to kill her, proceeded about it without strate-gy or effort to conceal bis crime. He put her out of the way with as little compunction as though she had been an animal whose existence was no longer desirable. He was apprehensive the girl would come between him and bis patrinuony, and he would probably bave killed any other woman who menaced his future in woman who menaced his future in the same way.

The interest in this case attaches to the criminal himself. When brought to trial he courted conviction, asked for it, and absolutely pleaded for it. He seemed to have no consciousness of having committed a crime. He simply recognized the fact that the law declared it a crime punishable with death. The set itself was ishable with death. The act itself was to him no more criminal than the killing of a chicken. He asserted this in court and at all times, and it was impossible to rouse in him any consciousness of a

He regarded macif as an anomaly, and believing that ere was, as he expressed it, something prious in the formation of his brain, he esired that, after his death, it should be desired that, after his death, it should be examined. This was among his last expressed wishes. Accordingly, after his execution, a post mortem examination was held, and attended by many distinguished physicians, surgeons, and men of science. Inquiry has of late been directed to the physical causes of crime, and here mished a capital subject for our mairc litrilisace a capital subject for pur-sining the investigation. A more pro-nounced case of apparent want of moral nature, from some physical or mental de-formation, was never placed on the dis-secting table. The examination was min-

Printers and Newspapers.

At a printers' festival held in Buffalo re ently, an able address was delivered, rom which we make the following extracts which contain a volume of truth: PRINTERS.

Printers are unlike other classes of men Their vocation imparts to them an intelli entences, and paragraphs, they are con stantly brought into communion with thoughts and their working and thus in-sensibly hecome imbued, with the ideas of those minds whose creations they help to the world. They literally get grammar the world. They literally get grammar at their finger ends while picking up the types that form sentences that are grammatical. Spelling comes to them as natural as breathing, for they fall into correct orthography from force of habit.

The characteristics of printers are not so favorable to personal thrift as those of other professions. They partake of the patrimony is dissipated, and I prefer sur-cide to misery. From wild friendless boys in the streets, are made what are called Printer's Devils; sext they become printers, and after that sometimes editors, in which capacity they not unfrequently make their mark in the nation and in the world. Dr. Franklin was a most eninent instance in the early days of our country, and Thurlow Weed, Horace Greeley, Simon Cameron, Vice-President Hamlin, Gen. Dix, Speaker Colfax, Gideon Welles, Robert Bonner, Prince Napoleon, Petroleum Vesuwins Nasby, and Artemns Ward are striking examples at the present time. Pollard on the War Path.

The Richmond Dispatch gives the fol-owing account of Pollard's last: Mr. Id. Rives Pollard, charged with threatening the life of Thomas H. Wynne, Esq., was arraigned before the Mayor yes-terday morning. Judge Ould appeared as his counsel.

Mr. Wynne testified that he got ont the warrant for the arrest upon the following telegram, received on Saturday last:
"Gordensville, April 13, 1867.—To "GORDONSVILLE, April 13, 1867.— To Thomas H. Wynne: You are a d—d thief and liar. Pay dishonored drafts this day and arrearages of your bond, and cease to retail your cowardly lies and gos-sip about me, or I will cut your tongue out and grind you to dust by exposing your thieving and villainous transactions with Yankee companies. purchase of the Examiner he gave Pollard a bond payable in the form of an an unity at the rate of $200 per month for two years from the date of purchase. This had been paid up to the first of March and about the 1st of April he received eletter from Ur. G. A. Moore, who was Pollard's bondsman for his appearance in Baltimore, informing him that he had advanced one thousand dollars on the bond vanced one thousand dollars on the bone and it had been assigned to Dr. Mo Wynne for two hundred dollars, and abou the same time Dr. Moore wrote him a letter (which was produced in contr) requesting him not to pay any drafts made by Pollard until the $1,000 was paid, and alleging as a reason for thus writing that Pollard had requested him to allow Wynne to pay a draft of one hundred and thirty dollars. Mr. Wynne stated that he declined to pay the draft of $200 for the reason that Pollard had not only no right to draw on him at all; on the contrary, he told him he would never accept a draft drawn hy Pollard, and for the additional reason, that having full confidence in the statethe same time Dr. Moore wrote him a le that having full confidence in the state-ment made in Dr. Moore's letter, he con-sidered the debt dne to Dr. Moore; and, for failing to meet Pollard's druft under these circumstances the threat contained in the despatch was made."
Judge Ould asked Mr. Wynne if he be-lieved that Mr Pollard had at this time any intentions of attacking him.

Mr. Wynne was not able to say, but thought that if an opportunity occurred
Pollard would attack him. His counsel Mr. Ould stated to his Honor that Mr.

Pollard asserted that he had dictated the telegram under the impulse of a moment, and while in a state of violent excitement, and that he had no intention of executing Mr. Pollard stated in addition to what iis counsel had said, that he had no idea to be under peace bonds for a long time, but he had never yet violated one, His Honor said that he had never known a more aggravating breach of good behavior than this, or words more author-ized to create a quarrel than those contained in the telegram of Mr. Pollard

He would bind him over in the snm $1,000.
Mr. Onld hoped that this would not be done. Mr. Pollard was not a man of means. He was already nnder heavy bonds, and this would be but an addition

A New Cure for Consumption.—A receut letter from Paris to the New York Evening Post says:

M. Baleguer addresses a communication o M. Plorry, in Le Courier Medical, des cribing the properties of a new oil, that seems endowed with a marvelons facility for traversing animal membranes. If a few drops are poured into the palm of the hand and the palm rubbed with the finger, he oil is soon seen oozing through the back of the hand. The same experiment tried on the forearm produces the same result. When the oil is saturated by a foreign substance it loses none of this re-markable power for absorption, and can therefore serve as vehicle par excellence for the administration of deugs. The ex-periment bas been tried with copabin and with iodine, and with very satisfactory results. When the oil, saturated with dine, was rubbed upon the palm of the hand, and the back of the hand wiped with a piece of muslin, the muslin was singed violet. M. Balegner believes that the efficacy of iodine, if administered in this oil, would be so immensely increased that a rational hope might be entertained its power to arrest tuberculization the lungs and prevent hemorrage. Am the patients upon w bom he has tried the method, in the first stages of consumption method, in the first stages of consumption, be has found the signs of tubercular deposit diminish, the respiration become treer, embonpoint succeed to emaciation, and a general feeling of wellbeing, to which the infortunates had long been unaccustomed, begins to establish itself.

An Address to the Parents and Public of Virginia, by General R. E. Lecand Pro-fessors Minor and Dabuey.

Dabney have published an address npon the subject of education, which is so judi-cions, practical, and sensible in its views, that we transfer it to our columns. It will well repay an attentive perusal by every person who is interested in the edu-cational training of children. The ad-dress is as follows: The undersigned have been appointed, by the "Educational Association of Virginia, a committee to address you on their behalf, "urging yon to a more hearty co-operation with teachers, in matters of inruction, discipline," &c.

The benefits which would be secured to cation, and the aid which would be af ferded teachers by such co-operation, would be very great, as all who have any experience on the subject must be aware of the obstacles at the very threshold of of the obstacles at the very three ducation, arising from the want of proper ducation, arising from the want of proper ducation, arising from the want of proper ducation. family management. If, therefore, the can be removed, much good will be tained. Since the teacher is properly e regarded as the parent's agent, to as n the training of his children, it appea by the training of his children, it appea by the training of his children, it appears to a this important concurrence, by pointing them to the fundamental principle be observed in the education of youth. In its broad, comprehensive sense, edu-tion embraces the physical, moral, and ellectnal instruction of a child, from fancy to manhood. Any system is im rfect which does not combine them all d that is best, which, while it thoroughly velops them, ahases the coarse, anima fections of humane nature, and exalts he higher faculties and feelings. A hild has everything to learn, and is more eadily taught by having before it good xamples to imitate, than by simple prepts. He should therefore, as far as cepts. He should therefore, as far as cir-cumstances will permit, be enconraged to associate with his parents, for his heart must be affected, his feelings moved, as well as his mind expanded. He may be taught that it is criminal to steal, and sin ful to lie, and yet he unable to apply this knowledge to the government of himself and it will, therefore, be of no value to him, nuless the aprinciple is confirmed into a babit.

Obedience is the first requisite in family training. It should be made sincere and perfect, and to proceed as much from affection as a conviction of its necessity. To accomplish this, great prudence, and the exercise of much patience, are accessed. Except the first process with frindness. sary. By firmness, mixed with kindness, the child will learn, by repeated experience, that he is not to follow his first impulse, and that self-control, which even an infant can understand, is necessary to his comfort. Neither violence nor harshare should even be need and the parent. ness should ever be need; and the parent must bear[constantly in mind, that, to gov-ern his child, he must show him that he can control himself. One of the most common errors in the management of children is irregularity of hehavior to-ward them. They are as skillful as per-tinacions in their attempts to gratify their self-will; at one time trying to evade authority, at another to oppose it. If the once succeed, they are encouraged to per evere, and it is necessary for the parent o meet the first attempt with firmness nd not permit himself to be baffled either evasion or resistance. Although a ld may not yield to threats, and may y punishment, he cannot resist patient ness and gentle admonition.

The love of truth is equal in importance habithal obedience. Every encourageent, even to the pardoning of offeness, hould be given to its cultivation. The rst impulse of the mind in children is lways to speak the truth rather than falseway them to notruth. They should be ecustomed to hear the truth always spok-Confession of error with a detestati falsehood, dishonesty, and equivocation bould be sedulously inculcated. A strict dherence to promises made to them is of the ntmost importance, as well as the removal of all temptation to misconduct. The influences of christianity form the essential element of moral character; a its principles are the only sufficient hasis of virtue or happiness. Hence, the parent's most sacred duty to his child is to impress the sentiments of our holy religion early upon his mind, by personal exthe intellect expands, its sacred trut mill be comprehended and felt, and motives and principles be strengthen and confirmed by practice and habit. An essential part of the education youth is to teach them to serve themselv. and to impress upon them the fact that nothing can be acquired in this world without labor, and that the very necessaries and comforts of life must be pro-cured by earnest and regular exertion. They should also be taught to know that, after having been reared and educated hy after having been reared and educated by their parents, they should not expect them to provide further for them, and that their future subsistence and advancement must depend upon themselves. Parents some-times commit the mistake of allowing their children, after having reached the period of life when they onght to be en-gaged in making a livelihood, to rely upon them for support. This encourages them nem for support. This encourages them in injurious idleness, and destroys their spirit of self-dependence, which is neces-sary for their advancement in life, and causes them to appear so unreasonabe as to depend upon them, after having ar-rived at an age when they should think and act for themselves. The choice of a profession is not of so much consequence as the manner in which it is pursued. If habits of self-con-trol and self-denial have been acquired during the season of education, the great ject has been accomplished. Diligence and integrity in any useful pursuit of life will be sure to secure prosperity and fame, and success will result from enga-ging in that business in which the generality of mankind are interested.

Such being the correct view of education, the support and co-operation which faithful teachers should receive from parents can be easily inferred by the good sense of each one. We only ask especial attention, in concluding, to the following suggestions, which our experience has shown to be of prime importance: ality of mankind are interested. shown to be of prime importance. The parent, after committing his child to the teachings of another, should continue to manifest an affectionate inter-est in his improvement, by constant inquiry and encouragement 2. The snpplying of young persons, while absent from their homes, with needlea money and the permission to contract debta, is to be reprobated, as tempting to a sinful prodigality and multiplying the dangers of contracting habits of vice.

3. The proper anthority of the teachers must be firmly sustained by parents.

4. Every young person should be informed by his parents that he must give diligence to profit hy his studies, or else must be compelled to make himself useful to society by actual labor in some humbler sphere.

And last, an unworthy parent cannot reasonably expect the teacher, against the current of his wrong example, to form his son into a worthy man.

How to LEARN SWIMMING .- The follow-How to Learn Swimming.—The following arrangements for instruction in the art of swimming have been found good and safficient. A rope is laid out from the beach to a distance of about 100 yards, seenred at each end by an anchor, and a small boat is moored by a hitch of the rope round the rowlock. By such an arrangement, the boat can be readily passed to and from the shore, or kept stationary in deep water. A pole lashed to the middle thwart with a block made fast at the end of it, and a line passing through the block with belt or band attached, complete the appliances. The learner steps plete the appliances. The learner steps from the shore into the boat, which is then passed out into deep water. With the band firmly secured under the arm-pits he dives off the boat, and soon, in a short ime, finds enjoyment in the sudden and fast, the would be swimmer finds himself in a good position for practising the nec-essary motions, and the instructor has opportunity to give directions. When to strike out with steadiness and able to strike out with steadiness and regularity, the arrangement by which the boat is moored with the rope passing over the rowlock allows the learner to attempt to make progress towards the shore, and this is a matter of great importance, for it is no nncommon thing to meet with boys who can keep themselves affoat and go through the movements of the awimmer, but are unable to make much headway in the water. It is of greatest moment that leaves in awimming should be given from a boat in deep water, and that the learner should be brought as soon as possible to direct his energies towards making good progress in the water. The system of instruction thus briefly described has heen followed ont with success by the swimming masters at various swimming establishments

ANNIVERSARY OF ODD-FELLOWSHIP IN AMERrca.—This grand occasion rolls around to-morrow. It will be celebrated as a universal jubilee throughout our continent. The various Lodges of the Order in Louisville have concluded their preparations, and the event will be commemorated hers on a scale of magnificence and in a spirit of friendship, love and truth, unsurpassed by any former occa-sion of the kind. We call attention to the several ents on the subject to be found in the Journal this morning.

Horse THIEF ARRESTER.—Officer Casper Selbert, of Jeffersonville Iyesterday arrested a man named John W. Hopkins, charged with stealing horses in Kentneky. He had fied from the officers of this State, and was doubtless heading for the headquarters of a gang of the same atripe, near Milipott, in Indians. The arrest was made in a house on Middle Creek, where he had taken refuge. Hopkins was yesterday hrought over to the city jail by Officer Enlow, of the Lonisville police.

NEW YORK.

The steamer Perirre from Brest on the 13th, arrived to-day. And the City of Baltimore, Western Metropolis, and Buussa from Europe also arrived.
The Londou Standard of the 11th, regards the war between France and Prusia iuevitable within a few months. Some German papers are already dis-cussing military operations. The North German, a Prussian Ministerial paper, has an article on the subject which at-

Geruiany is intense, and the most biter enemics of Prussia side with her now; and that she will be supported by sublic opinion and countless volunteers Paris papers consider the Luxemburg question encompassed with great danger. La France does not attempt to conceal Cabinet does not consider itself any longer bound by any considerations toward the confederates.

Paris letter of the 12th says the financial panic still continues. Business is greatly excited, and but little talked of but war. All believe it inevitable, all-hough some think the Exposition may leave it for some wantle.

La France occlares that the Government has hitherto shown a spirit of prudence which has with difficulty kept down the emotions and aspirations excited by the ambition of Prussia.

It is reported that the Camp of Chalons will be formed immediately and 100,000 men concentrated there.

The Prussian Government will convoke the Chambers soon after Easter.

e Chambers soon after Easter. presented an address to the King of Hol-land asking to be annexed to France. The Berlin journals say that in the event of a war the whole North German army will be furnished with needle-guns.

The fortifications of Kiel, Bay, Alsen, and Snndernitt are being considerably The North German Gazette says no one n Germany wishes war, and in France only those can desire it who intend to culate upon the general misfortune. It e adduced in favor of the necesity of the nnexation of Luxembourg to France. A severe shock of earthquake was felt here at 3 P. M. to-day.
